

DERIVATIVE

The derivative of a function is its rate of change. Intuitively, the first derivative at some point is the slope of the function at that point.

